About the NJESA

The New Jersey Electronic Security Association (NJESA) represents electronic security professionals, system integrators, fire alarm companies, manufacturers and distributors that do business in New Jersey. By joining the NJESA, you'll open the pathway to being licensed – a legal requirement in NJ for alarm installers. Plus, when you become a member, you'll enjoy many more benefits.

The NJESA exists to promote public safety and foster positive relationships with police, fire and elected officials at the local, state and national level.

The NJESA actively engages in consumer advocacy and our organization is guided by our Code of Ethics.

Licensing

In the state of New Jersey, Alarm Contractors are required to be licensed. State mandated licensing ensures that alarm contractors have passed a background check, are properly insured and have met minimum training requirements. New Jersey does not have reciprocity with other states – If a contractor is licensed in another state – they still need to hold a license in the state of New Jersey. At this time, a federal license does not exist. Licensed members of NJESA are listed on the DCA website.

Training & Certification

Training and education in the security industry is critically important. From beginning in business to expert installer, NJESA offers timely educational opportunities at every level. Members enjoy reduced registration fees.

We track all of your NJESA-sponsored training to assist with your licensing renewal process.

Advocacy

Legislation affects everyone in the alarm industry and through your association you have representation at the state and national levels of government. The NJESA works for your best interests in Trenton, Newark and Washington D.C. Licensing requirements do change and as a member you are kept informed. We also work on your behalf with cities throughout the state to watchdog local and state ordinances. Avoid legal trouble by staying up to date on regulations.

Member Benefits

Becoming an NJESA member indicates a commitment to learning and growing, combined with personal and business success in the security industry. All of our benefits are aimed at providing our members with a wealth of resources that when leveraged, result in measurable impact to their business.

Networking and Events

All are invited to participate in our regional quarterly meetings. However, only NJESA members will receive a discount. All meetings start with a 2 hour New Jersey approved CEU class.
